THE CAPE BRETON DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION New Business Development Team The New Business Development people at Devco are anxious to help you and the economy of the Island. If you have ideas or proposals that could lead to the establishment of a new business or industry or expansion of present industries to create long-term jobs and bring new income to Cape Breton, then come in and talk to the people involved with New Business Development. During the past year, people from many parts of Cape Breton Island discussed their proposals for new and expanded businesses in the primary and secondary sector and in fishing and marine related industries. Some received valuable guidance in financing and management. Each person who contacted the New Business Development Division, whether they qualified for assistance or not, is a better informed individual as a result of his or her discussion with Devco. Today, make a move to learn more about Devco's New Business Development program. Contact David Miller, Vice-President of Industrial Development or Dariny White, Director of Secondary Industry, or Bill McKee, Director of Fishing and Marine Related Industries.
