Miss Stewart This strathspey was composed by William Marshall in Scotland in the late 18th century. I've heard it played by dozens of Cape Breton fiddlers, all with their own little variations. Doug MacPhee recorded this tune, as well as the following reel, on his third LP, where he stated Duncan MacQuarrie's influence. As a matter of fact, he called "Miss Scott of Usan" "Duncan MacQuarrie's Reel." William Marshall Cape Breton Setting IV Miss Scott of Usan Sandy MacLean played the reel, "Miss Scott of Usan," in the Key of F, as found in the Athole Collection. However, Dan J. Campbell and Duncan MacQuarrie played it in the Key of G, which seems to be the setting which caught on with Cape Breton fiddlers. They used to play together before Duncan left Inverness County and came to New Waterford to live. Reel Cape Breton Setting Doug's Jig "Doug's Jig" was composed by Margaret MacPhee, Doug's mother. She has written about half a dozen good jigs which have caught on among fiddlers. Five of them were recorded on Doug's LPs. And one was recorded on a Dan Joe MacInnis record. This tune and "Jacqueline's Jig" are on Doug's fourth LP, "The Reel of Tulloch." Margaret MacPhee t.40) COME HOME TO KENT From th? instant you step into a Kent Home, you led homes.
