there eight years afterward. Malcolm: And she was brought home and buried from her father's house. Hugh: Everything is funny. We went into Dan Peter's and he was saying the rosary, Dan Hayes and I. When I went on my knees, right at the door, well hell started up? stairs, upon my soul. The noise and shifting and everything. I followed right thro'th and we had a cup of tea and I asked Dan Hayes, "Did you hear it?" "Hear what," he says. "Well," I said, "you were right along side of me." I was in the house when that man was dead, mister, when they were taking him down • and that was the noise. How many years was that? Helen: A good many. Malcolm: I heard furniture moving like that that was used at a wake, too. Chairs. A house that I was in. In the middle of the night. The woman of the house heard it too. She thought there was somebody downstairs. She came downstairs. And there wasn't a soul there. But not long afterwards a relative of their's died a few houses away and they were short of chairs and they came and they took these chairs for the wake. Helen: Our maternal grandfather made caskets. Malcolm: Yes, and Aunt Tora was the one who used to get the forerunners about them. He used to make them up over the kitchen loft one time, in the wintertime. And she was sleeping there. Different times she had felt the bed move. Well, they'd have to move her bed to set up the workbench. Malcolm: A forerunner can be when you see a living persoii too. A stranger was going to come. And you'd see a forerunner of a stranger. It might have no connection with death at all. I remember tJncle Peter seeing one home. He saw this woman going around the barn. And I don't know how many years afterward this girl came to teach school and she was boarding at our place and she and I were out throwing the ball over the barn, you know, and he saw her running and he remembered that. Sadie: What about seeing John Campbell? Malcolm: Yes. And the man was living and lived for many years. He was a neighbor of ours and my uncle was working over at the bam. He was fixing the barn door. I was with him. I was about nine I guess. Nine or ten. And about 3 o' clock in the afternoon • mother was in the house alone • and fe saw this neighbor of ours going in on the front door. He only lived up the road I suppose 5 or 7 minutes J ALLIED VAN LINES Moffatt Bros.
