was quite flat, and it was quite rocky. I don't know--he said he never could grow anything on it. But we got together. And between 1928, the fall, right through until early summer 1929, we sort of made runways. Between bulldozers and stuff, on loan by the town of Glace Bay --they loaned us bulldozers. And we had a lot of volunteer work. Sydney wasn't a very big help towards it. New Waterford mayor was--Mayor Hinchey--he was helpful. And eventually we got our flying field together.

It was a combination of manual, volunteer help, and-- a man by the name of Jimmy Calder from Glace Bay--fellow that ran the fire engine department. He looked after the motors and--caretaker and whatnot. He and his son, they volunteered--everything was volunteer. Today, you couldn't get it at all, we got the thing flyable. Well, you have to have a minimal amount of into-the-wind clearance. In other words, you have to get down--you don't (want) to have obstacles too much on either end. And unfortunately we did have one obstacle at one end of the southeast-northwest runway. It was a hydro--high-tension wires--and a tramline. A tramline then ran from Glace Bay to Sydney, and the tracks and wires, they blocked off the southern end of the field. So many a time we skimmed over them with our wheels pretty nearly touching the high- CO-OP CO-OP Building Supplies KING'S ROAD, SYDNEY Manufacturers of Quality HARBOUR HOMES MM) Pointing the Way to Better Living We've been building quality into our homes for more than 32 years.
