Celebrating 20 Years | OUR 20th YEAR KICKED OFF IN NOVEMBER when the Cultural Federations of Nova Scotia gave editor Ronald Caplan the 1991 Cultural Life Award for his work in oral history, history and photography through Cape Breton's Magazine. We are grateful to the Cultural Federations for their recognition. And as part of the 20th Year celebrations, the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia will present an exhibition of photographs from Cape Breton's Magazine. The exhibition will open in Halifax (March 28 through April 26), and will then tour a number of galleries across the province well into 1993. Our thanks to the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia and to the sponsors of the exhibition • LASMO, the new offshore oil corporation. LASMO chose the Cape Breton's Magazine photograph exhibition because they felt that twenty years of the magazine was not only an achievement, but an achievement that significantly represented Nova Scotia. Their sponsorship makes possible, among other things, a 36-page catalogue of the exhibition. Cape Breton GIANT James D. GILLIS Sir of James D. Gillis IN DECEMBER 1780, Ensign Prenties wrecked near Margaree Harbour. With companions, he headed north; the survivors were finally saved by Micmac Indians at St. Ann's Bay. Forty years later, Samuel Burrows and his companions landed around Fishing cove.
Crawling over steep mountains, they eventually reached pioneer homes of Acadians with little to share in their attempts at aid and comfort. Northern Cape Breton in winter • true first-person accounts of excruciating survival and of humanity. They will mark your life. 133 Pages with Notes $11.25 Set of All 3 Classic Cape Breton
