and she was staying with a Mrs, Gillis in Judique, Two or three times she had told Mrs, Gillis of things that she saw or heard, and Mrs, Gillis didn't pay too much attention because she thought that this wasn't just (proper). But they were having tea on a Saturday afternoon in Judique-- Mary Belle was, of course, from Margaree Forks, They lived right directly across from the school at Margaree Forks, So she was with her Boarding Mrs, up in Judique on this Saturday afternoon. And quite often in the country when a lady would go and get a new dress or something like that, she'd like to show it to the neighbours. While they were having tea another lady came in and she had been up to Hawkesbury, and she came back and she had bought a new dress. And she brought the dress over for Mrs. Gillis and Mary Belle Cameron to see the nice, new dress that she was carrying with her. Mrs. Gillis, of course, praised the dress and all that but Mary Belle didn't say too much. And after the lady left and took her dress back home, Mrs. Gillis turned to Mary Belle and she said, "You didn't appear to praise the dress very much, Mary Belle," she said. "Didn't you like it? I thought it was very nice." Mary Belle said, "I liked the dress very much, but what struck me," she said, "is the fact that that will be the dress that she will be wearing in her casket." Now this may sound a little freaky, but it's the truth. So Mrs. Gillis didn't pay too much attention, but three weeks from that day this lady who had bought the dress was doing her housework and she dropped dead from a massive heart attack. And before they could get her to the hospital she had passed out at home. So they, as they call it, waked her in her own home. Mrs. Gillis and Mary Belle went to the wake and Mrs. Gillis said she almost dropped when she went in and looked in the casket at the re- Richmond County's Route 4 "I took the road less travelled by ...and that has made all the difference.*" -Robert Frost mains and there was the lady with the dress on just as Mary Belle Cameron told her she would have on! That "that would be the dress she would be wearing in her casket." (Then Archie Neil told Linda the story that Fr. John Angus Rankin had told, of his own father coming back from the dead, wanting John Angus to pay a very specific bill at the store, before he could rest. That story is published in Cape Breton's Magazine, Issue 45 and also in the Cape Breton Book of the Night. Then Archie Neil told her of a personal experience, about the night his father returned from the dead to save him from being frozen where he had fallen on a stormy winter's night. Archie Neil 's telling of that experience was first published in Issue 42 and later in the book, Archie Neil by Mary Anne Du- charme. Af? ter that.
