But my dear friend this is an awful lonesome place and some times I am feeling very lonely and sick of it all. Good bye and write soon. Lovingly yours John A., St. Pauls Island John's father died sometime in 1919 and John came home to Boularderie to be with his sister Florence, who was ail alone on the farm after their father died. When she decided to get married, he went back to St. Paul's in November of 1920. Miss Margret Coady 46 Atlantic Street, Sydney, Cape Breton July 24, 1920 Dear Margret, I received your letter. I was awful glad to hear from you once more and also that you didn't forget me altogether. I did get your letter and answered it to but you didn't write since until this time. Well Margret how is times. I suppose you are driving it for all you are worth. I am too darn busy farming to have a good time. Why don't you take a trip over while you are home. I would surely like to see you. I am collecting county rates in our District this year and I have to go over to Sydney soon, perhaps you could arrange to meet me when I am over there for old time sake. Well Margret times are changing all the time I find an awful change in my home since you and I met before and Peter is married all right. He is lucky. Those good things are not for me. Well Margret I must conclude with Love I am yours as ever. J. A. McIntyre, Boularderie West Miss Margret Coady Alder Point, C. B. October 16, 1920 To Miss Margret Coady From Mr. John A. Cape Breton Dear Margret, I arrived here safe after a rather rough trip down. We had to put in to White Point for shelter Wednesday night but the next day it was fine. Well dear Margret things are pretty dull here we haven't much fun but it's a means to an end. I am heaping for better things next summer if God spares me then. I am going back home and settle down. I hope to be in a position to brighten things up around home and perhaps I might be able to induce somebody to take pity on a lonely bachelor. Well Margret I want you to write to me often.
