the fields. Even from here, when he arrived, he would go out dig? ging posts and things like that. He was intensely practical. He wasn't just sitting at the desk or anything like that.... You know, sometimes you think, are we naive? We're not. We're in a beautiful country thanks to ray ancestors. I think that I would have had a good education some? where. I'm not a university grad? uate. We didn't, during the war, get to finish our studies. But I was able to go back and study. We had prosperous times. The only adverse thing was the loss of lovely men in the war, and that is fast re? ceding. I think we live in a wonderful coun? try. I thought that when I went to Nova Scotia, about how fortunate I am. H' moth? er, with the estate she was able to leave me, and yet her grandmother had nothing. END fe = J.J. BARRINGTON LTD Left: Yvonne IVIcInnes Sturgess. Right: Betty Powell, curator of the House of Memories. Donald Nugent's trip to New Zealand was made possible through a combination of the efforts of the UCCB BACS Pro? gram, Enterprise Cape Breton Corporation, the Beaton Institute, and the Cape Breton's Magazine Centre for Documentary Field Studies. Our thanks to Betty Powell, curator of the House of Memories, for her guidance, encouragement, and hospitality. She was present for this conversation with Yvonne Sturgess, and was very much Don's guide during his research in Waipu. He enjoyed marvelous access to the House of Memories' collec? tion, and brought back photocopies, photographs, and inter? views. Future issues of Cape Breton's Magazine will offer more from this treasure. WHEEL ALIGNMENT & AUTO BODY LTD. 137 Kings Rd.
